

Martin O'Malley
CEO of Wolters Kluwer Legal & Regulatory

Martin O'Malley is CEO of Wolters Kluwer Legal & Regulatory, a global leading provider of legal and compliance solutions. The division serves professionals around the world with expert information and software solutions that help them comply with complex legal and regulatory requirements, mitigate risk and improve their outcomes.

As CEO, Martin has advanced Legal & Regulatory's growth and market leadership through portfolio transformation and customer-centered innovation, with a focus on expert information and software solutions. An established industry leader with 25 years of experience in global organizations, Martin has a strong track record of driving advancements in customer satisfaction, employee engagement and business performance.

Martin was named CEO of Wolters Kluwer Legal & Regulatory in 2020. He joined Wolters Kluwer in 2017 and served as the Managing Director for the Benelux region of Legal & Regulatory. During his career, he has held leadership roles across different global areas, including Operations, Sales and Customer Service, Product Development, Marketing and Content, and gained extensive experience in migrating traditional publishing businesses online through digital product development and business model evolution. The Legal & Regulatory division had 2022 revenue of €914 million, with 4,000 employees. The division's market-leading solutions include ELM Solutions, Europe's top cloud-based legal practice management solution Kleos, and a portfolio of authoritative information solutions in countries across Europe and the U.S., including One, InView, VitaLaw, WK-Online and LEX.