

Simplifying Multi-State Registered Agent Compliance

Every corporation or LLC must have a registered agent in its state of formation and in each state where it is registered to do business. For businesses operating in multiple states or with multiple subsidiaries, a multi-state registered agent service provides a simple, streamlined approach to compliance.

Risks of Using Multiple Agents

A patchwork compliance approach can lead to significant issues. Using multiple registered agents increases the risk of -

Missed legal notices

Inconsistent compliance tracking

Outdated information on file with states

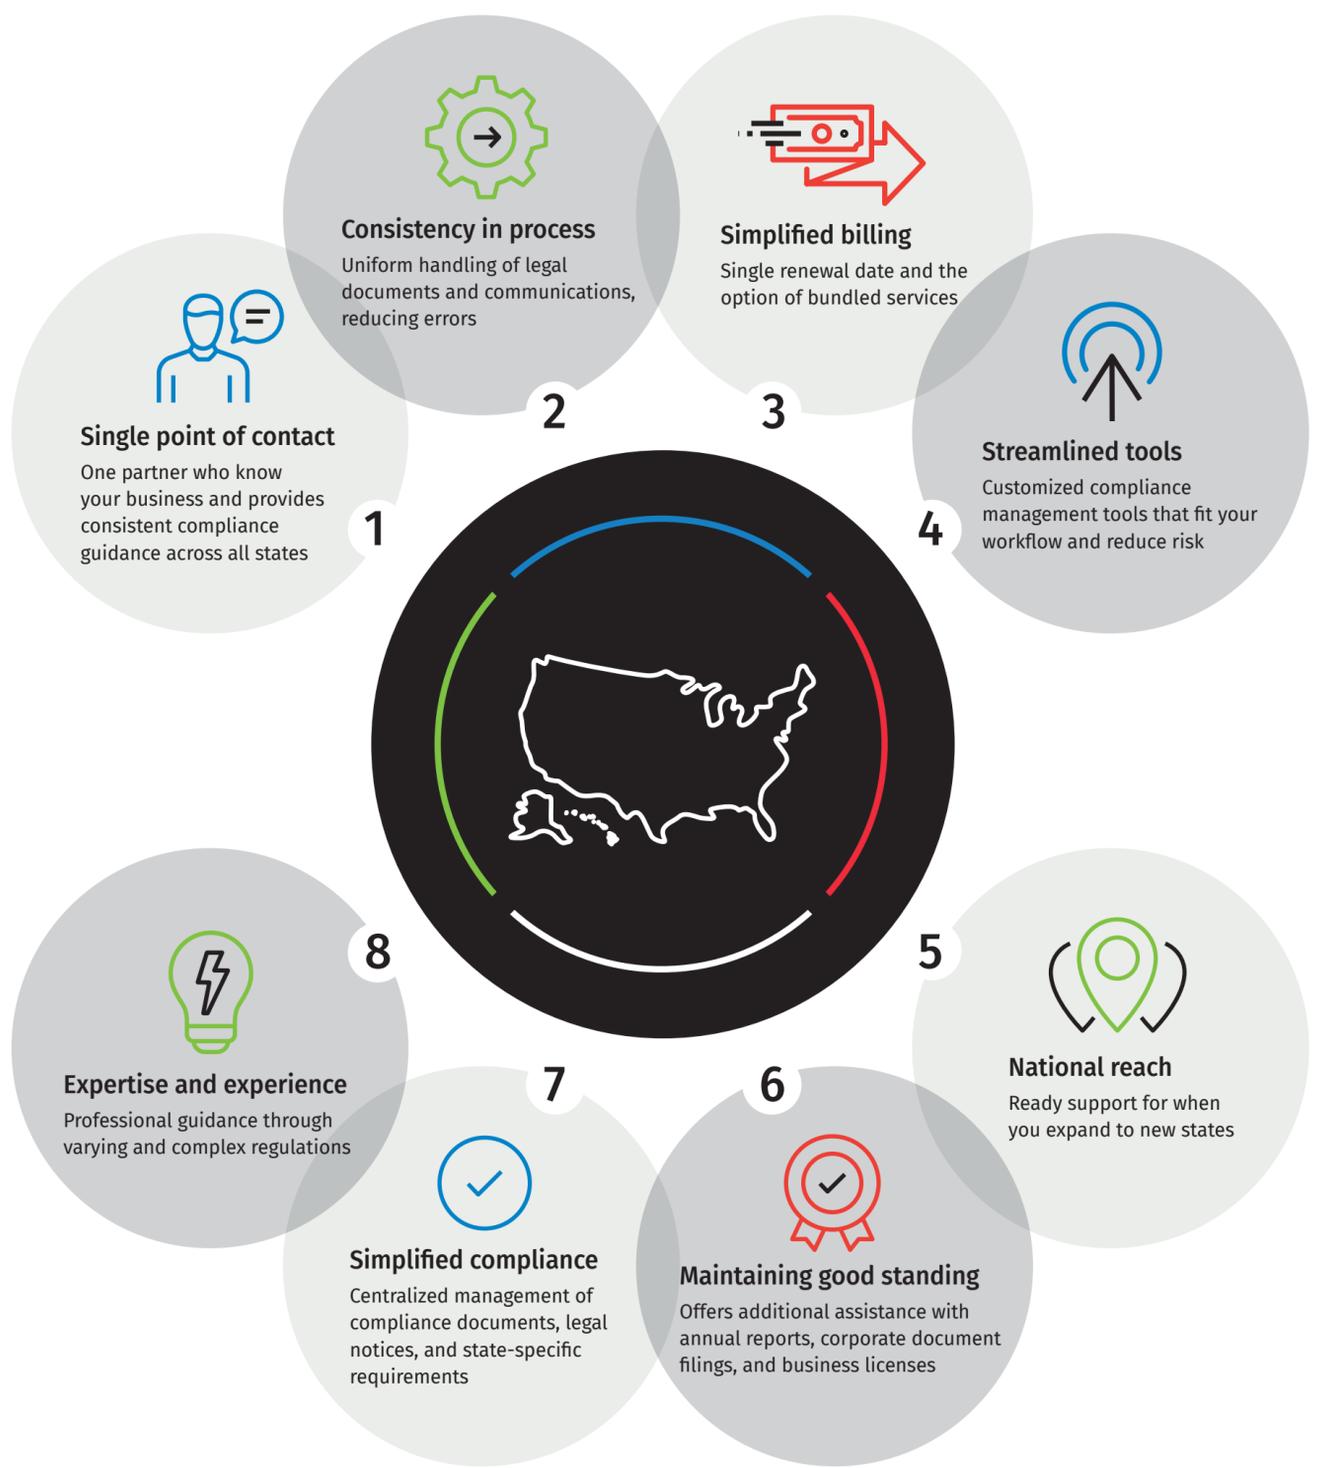

Greater administrative burden

Higher costs

Benefits of a Multi-State Registered Agent

Using a single registered agent for multi-state coverage provides key advantages:

How to Change Your Registered Agent Service

Switching registered agents requires filing a Statement of Change in each state and completing several key steps. A national registered agent service can help simplify this process.
