

BasisPro™ provides clients with a simple way to calculate cost basis information. Specifically designed as a cost basis solution for financial advisors, planners, tax preparers, brokers, and back offices, BasisPro eliminates inaccuracies in cost basis reporting by providing an application to calculate this information efficiently.

With BasisPro, you can research and analyze complex corporate actions, such as stock splits, spin-offs, and mergers, as far back as 1950. BasisPro is a web-based application that allows you to manually enter trades or import transactions that have been entered into our Excel® template. Once transactions are in BasisPro, all corporate actions affecting the original trade lots are automatically applied to determine the shares and cost basis on the specific holding dates. This information is calculated and displayed within seconds. The results can then be exported to an Excel spreadsheet or a PDF file and saved on your desktop or e-mailed to your client.

Why BasisPro?

Calculating cost basis for individual stocks and mutual funds is a time-consuming task that requires great precision. If it is not done correctly, the mistakes can be extremely costly. With the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) scrutinizing cost basis reported on your securities more closely than ever before, there is even more reason to ensure that your calculations are accurate. The IRS and BasisPro rely on the same information source – Capital Changes, a part of Wolters Kluwer Financial Services and the recognized leader in corporate action tax analysis – to track cost basis calculations. If BasisPro customers are audited, they can have confidence that they are using information that is derived from the same solution the IRS uses. The burden of accurate cost basis calculations is placed squarely on investors, so it is important investors have concise information.

Our team draws from years of experience in the securities industry. We combine that with the expertise of our internal group of legal contributors who have honed their skills at some of the most prominent securities practices in the nation.

BasisPro can do virtually any calculation in a matter of seconds. It handles U.S. equities and mutual funds. Historical calculations are unlimited with BasisPro and can be tracked back to as long ago as 1950.
