ACC CardioSource Plus®

ACC CardioSource is a comprehensive and highly specialized educational resource for cardiologists. Its mission is to facilitate the advancement of knowledge within the field of cardiology, addressing the urgent global challenges of cardiovascular disease — the leading cause of death worldwide.

Key features of ACC CardioSource:

- Board Preparation: Devised with a focus on clinical education, ACC CardioSource provides modules and self-assessment programs designed to prepare board-certified cardiologists and fellows in cardiology from medical school through to the intricacies of their profession.
- Self-Assessment Programs: These comprehensive studies present an array of modules covering critical subjects — from Adult Clinical Cardiology to Electrophysiology — accompanied by approx. 2,000 practice questions that adhere to society guidelines and exam blueprints.
- Heart Sounds Library: A robust collection of audio files presenting heart murmurs of varying complexity, enhancing the auditory diagnostic skills of medical professionals.
- Continued Medical Education: Through this rigorous program, cardiologists can earn an ample number of CME/MOC and ECME credits, extending opportunities for lifelong learning and professional development.
- Regular Updates: The platform facilitates continuous education with regularly updated content, ensuring professionals remain at the forefront of cardiology advancements.
- User-Friendly Dashboard: A consolidated online interface allows easy management of all education modules, materials, and records — accessible through the ACC platform.

Unique selling points of ACC CardioSource:

The ACC CardioSource is unparalleled in its capacity to prepare cardiologists for board examinations, allowing users to identify knowledge gaps, refresh on fundamental principles, and gain expertise in highly specialized areas of cardiology. The amalgamation of self-assessment modules, meeting presentations, and a comprehensive audio library not only distinguishes ACC CardioSource from others but elevates the standards of medical education.

With this advanced educational package, cardiologists across all stages of their careers — from academic settings to professional practices — have access to a customized learning environment crafted by experts from the American College of Cardiology. ACC CardioSource's commitment to excellence and its authoritative presence within the field offers an invaluable toolkit to shape future leaders in cardiac care, research, and management.
