

Rules for submitting materials for publication

Manuscripts for publication in 'Commercial Law Review' should be submitted by email. The length of the manuscript should not exceed 30,000 thousand characters, including spaces. Each article needs to be accompanied by the following:

- 1) title,
- 2) abstract (lead) in Polish,
- 3) headings,
- 4) summary,
- 5) keywords,
- 6) list of references,
- 7) notes - traditional footnotes,
- 8) short note about the author with ORCID number,
- 9) email address for correspondence.

The author can suggest an English translation of the title, abstract, and keywords. Please provide (in a note) information about the sources of funding for a given publication, such as domestic or international grants, subsidies from foundations, associations or commercial institutions.

By submitting your text to the Editorial Board, you transfer to the Publisher an exclusive right to publish it.

The Editorial Board can abridge the manuscript, change the title and headings, make content-related and stylistic corrections, also in the English version.

The manuscript can be published only after the Author has sent back a signed agreement with the Publishing House.

Authors receive remuneration for articles published in 'Commercial Law Review'.

Academic articles submitted to the Editorial Board are reviewed and evaluated by the editorial college and, once approved, they are published.

The basic policy of reviewing the submitted manuscripts and instructions for Authors concerning ghostwriting are available on the website: <http://www.wolterskluwer.pl/proces-publicacji-w-czasopismie>.

Detailed information about 'Commercial Law Review' monthly is available on the website: <http://www.czasopisma.wolterskluwer.pl/przegląd-prawa-handlowego>.
