

Bill Baker
Chief Human Resources Officer
Wolters Kluwer

Bill Baker, an American national, is the Chief Human Resources Officer of Wolters Kluwer, starting June 2021. He has global responsibility for the design and implementation of human resources strategies, policies, and processes that continue to ensure that the corporation is a leading employer for all of our talented colleagues around the world who serve our customers.

Mr. Baker has been with Wolters Kluwer since 2013. Prior to his current role, he served as Executive Vice President, Global Rewards & HR Service Delivery, responsible for the design and delivery of a competitive and compelling rewards strategy as well as the optimization of HR Service Delivery including operations, analytics, and technology. Before that, he served as a Vice President and divisional head of HR, working with the leadership of our Governance, Risk & Compliance division.

Before joining Wolters Kluwer, Mr. Baker held a number of executive positions with responsibility for various HR disciplines at Guardian Life and Hummingbird/OpenText.
